During Elba Board of Education meeting

Superintendent delivers news of $190,000 grant award to benefit special education

by Linda Hodge, Editor

The Elba Board of Education met Monday night, Nov. 26, for its regular monthly meeting, and superintendent Chris Moseley had good news to share with board members.

Moseley said the school system had received a catastrophic grant in the amount of $190,000 from the state for special education. He said part of that funding would allow the school system to hire a full-time teacher unit and two aides for the special education program at Elba City Schools, and that would be funded definitely through the end of the current school year.

"To have a grant to be able to spend on personnel, especially one tied to special education, is great for our school system," superintendent Chris Moseley said.

Some of the funding also is for equipment and trainings for teachers, Moseley added.

He said the grant funding would run through October of 2019, and there could be opportunities to apply again to keep the funding going beyond that time.

"To have a grant to be able to spend on personnel, especially one tied to special education, is great for our school system," Moseley said.

He told board members he hoped to get the positions posted for employment this week and get that process started.

Board members approved a motion to authorize the superintendent to execute an equipment lease agreement with Developers of Elba Inc. to continue a partnership for use of a lawnmower used to cut football, baseball fields,

Coffee County Commission honors retiring employee

by Linda Hodge, Editor

The Coffee County Commission recognized its retiring maintenance department director Monday, Nov. 26, during the regular meeting for the Commission.

Todd Rugg joined the maintenance department for Coffee County on Oct. 25, 1992, and he took the helm as the maintenance department director on July 7, 2014. He will retire from that position on Dec. 1st after more than 25 years of service to Coffee County.

"This is really a bitter-sweet moment," said Coffee County Commission chairman Dean Smith. "Nobody on this commission is ready for Todd to retire."

He said Rugg had been as dependable as one could ask for in keeping the maintenance department going and keeping the offices and facilities running.

County engineer Marty Lentz said he would most likely miss Rugg the most, but he said he is proud for him and hopes he enjoys his retirement.

Retired county engineer Randy Tindell offered the job of maintenance director to Rugg, and he was in attendance for Monday's celebration to extends thanks to Rugg as well.

While he said anyone could see the great job Rugg did with the buildings around the county, he said it was the behind the scenes stuff that really stood out to him.

"He has a way with dealing with people on a personal level," Tindell said of Rugg. "He was able to diffuse many situations over the years. Todd was a peacemaker around the county."

Tindell said when he asked Rugg to take on the maintenance director's position, he told him to take ownership of the structures and buildings.

"I had no idea he would take it to that level," Tindell said. "It wasn't long before I was trying to figure out 'how to I get him to let go some and not work 24/7?' I never did."

He said he knew when he offered the job to Rugg that he would do a good job, but he had no idea how good of a job he would do.

"It was phenomenal," Tindell said. "I personally appreciate the job you did for the building and

Elba City Council approves a fire department training facility location

by Ferrin Cox, Publisher

The Elba City Council meeting Monday evening, Nov. 26, was limited to passing a fire department resolution, reviewing the financials and a couple of uneventful updates from the Chief of Police Leslie Hussey and Assistant City Clerk, Pat Boothe.

Hussey noted the usual pickup in holiday season police activity and gave sketchy details about a male subject found recently in a roadside ditch in the Mulberry Heights area. He said the man was hospitalized with his injuries but no arrests have been made. The chief indicated the man has so far declined to press charges or even indicate how he ended up in the ditch, bleeding heavily.

Council members were heard to utter positive mummers when Boothe announced that the second of the annual multi-year purchase of new garbage containers were on order and should be arriving soon.

The council approved a resolution allowing the Elba Fire Department to develop about four acres of city owned property just off Airport Road (behind the National Guard Armory) into a training facility for firefighters. The department plans to develop the facility over the next five years.

The council also authorized the Mayor Mickey Murdock to get an official survey of the property before the firemen begin installing fencing around the area.

Murdock gave an update of the financial status of the City of Elba and noted the fiscal year is off to a good start with the general fund showing a financial bounce of $27,000 during the first month of the year.

The report also reflected the release of $200,000 reserve funds from the recently refinanced bond

With Ferrin Cox

"Life's most persistent and urgent question is 'What are you doing for others?'" - Martin Luther King Jr.

Thanksgiving has come and gone . . . all but the dinner leftovers! After all these years we still have not learned to push away from the table before overeating. Of course we eat the leftovers, but the food is never as delicious as when served freshly cooked, with the steam rising from the bowls. On Thursday, daughter Michele's table was given the extra punch with the bowl of collards doused with son Eric's spicy homemade pepper sauce. Clearly we survived the over eating, but are still feeling the after effects that will probably go away early enough that we will have forgotten our gluttonous habits by the next festive gatherings during the Christmas season.

The tragic death in the Hoover shopping mall last week points out the built in danger of having private citizens armed to "stop" active shooter situations. In this case the armed man's relationship to the shooting incident is still unclear, even though police admit that the individual was probably not the initial shooter. Regardless, he is dead and we have still not heard an explanation of why he was running with a pistol in his hand. He could very well have been chasing the bad guy, may have been involved some way, etc., but again . . . he is dead and family members and friends are upset, as we would be.

There are boogers around every corner! We hesitate to pass this on but there are reports that some academics are opening vowing that the space probe that landed on Mars Monday is now exploration as claimed but interplanetary oppression. Gosh, so many Americans were openly proud and cheering the success of aiming a space ship at something that far away and gently landing it as planned . . . then releasing actual video pictures of the landing, almost instantly. These are probably the same people who are still arguing that there was a hidden conspiracy in the killing of both Presidents Lincoln and Kennedy and to a lesser degree, the President's brother, Attorney General Bobby Kennedy. Whatever their motives are, they are hinting at political correctness – on hot, forbidding Mars no less. You figure it out!

The "crooked politics" debate in both the recent Georgia governor's race and Tuesday's U. S. Senate race in Mississippi are not over. We received a ranting e-mail Tuesday detailing lots of dirty politics, etc., in both states. In the Georgia race our e-mail indicated a federal lawsuit was about to be filed charging a bunch of stuff. The vote is not in on the Mississippi race at press time but the e-mail author is claiming "vote stealing" by a method called Push Polling where they call unsuspecting voters and if they indicate plans to vote for the other candidate, they assure them their phone call is recorded as a vote and there is no need for the voter to go to the polls. That way the opponent loses a vote. Do it enough all across the district and your pal is elected: Apparently this is more effective on elderly and less informed citizens. Now if any of this is happening . . . we have no way of knowing, but it could just be sore losers, and political advisors, who don't want to admit their inability to win a majority of the votes.

~ Treading Water on Economic Freedom ~

Guest Editorial by Daniel Sutter

Economic freedom means the ability of individuals and businesses to contract freely with each other. The Fraser Institute recently released its 2018 Economic Freedom of North America, which rates freedom in the states. Alabama's economic freedom score remained virtually unchanged from 2017, ranking us 25th among the states.

The state freedom rankings have three equally weighted components, government spending, taxes, and labor market freedom, and complement Fraser's ratings of the freedom of nations. The scores range from 0 to 10 (the most freedom), and states are graded on a curve for each of the various elements of policy.

Alabama's score now stands at 6.22, vs. 6.25 in 2017. Florida has the top score in 2018 at 7.87, followed by New Hampshire and Texas; New York brought up the rear (at 3.90), with Kentucky and West Virginia next. Alabama does best on taxes, thanks to our low income and property taxes, while we trail the national averages for spending and labor market regulation. This year our score for labor market freedom improved, our spending score declined, and taxes remained unchanged.

Economic freedom indices were developed in response to a challenge by economist Milton Friedman about better measuring all the ways government impacts the economy. They have allowed economists to more thoroughly investigate whether markets deliver the benefits promised by some economists. Dozens of studies now document that economic freedom yields higher standards of living, faster economic growth, higher incomes for the poor, and better environmental quality. The strongest results are found internationally, as freedom varies more between nations than across the U.S. states. Still the states with the most economic freedom have more entrepreneurs and attract more new residents.

And yet in recent years cities and states have enacted or considered laws curbing economic freedom. For example, three states and Washington, DC, now have $15 per hour minimum wages. Seattle nearly passed a $275 annual tax per employee on large employers, dubbed the Amazon tax. A November ballot proposal in California nearly lifted a 1995 state prohibition on municipal rent control laws. If economic freedom spurs prosperity so significantly, why are so many states embracing freedom-restricting policies?

A first factor, I think, is our now nearly decade-long recovery. People are more willing to share when they feel prosperous. We see this in charitable contributions, and I think it carries over to politics and specifically policies intended to help less fortunate Americans. Forcing Amazon and Starbucks to subsidize housing for low income Seattle families seems like less of an imposition when the companies are earning profits.

Second, the costs of policies restricting economic freedom are often hard to see. Consider the minimum wage. Businesses employ fewer workers in low skilled jobs when the minimum wage rises. But the job losses rarely come in the form of pink slips immediately following an increase. Instead, businesses change their staffing as they typically do, through attrition. Workers never being hired can often go unnoticed.

Finally, the tendency of free market economists like myself to exaggerate the costs of rent control or the minimum wage contributes. We often claim that ill-advised policies will wreck the economy. Economists have warned that President Trump's tariffs on imports from China will likely trigger a "crippling" trade war.

Why economists resort to extremes makes sense. News organizations which use alarming headlines to get people to watch or click are more likely to report dire predictions. And perhaps sound bites can only communicate extreme warnings. But dire predictions combined with largely hidden costs make the economy appear impervious to price controls, taxes, and subsidies.

So perhaps it is good news that economic freedom remained basically unchanged in Alabama in 2018. We are largely resisting the temptation to indulge in well-meaning but costly government assistance during a strong economy. When the next recession inevitably occurs, times will be tougher for states not exercising restraint now.

American Red Cross Blood Drive set for Friday, Nov. 30th, at Kinston High School

The American Red Cross will be accepting blood donors at Kinston High School on Friday, Nov. 30, from 8:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. The school is located at 201 College St. E, in Kinston.

Red Cross has an urgent need for blood donors to give now to ensure blood is available for medical treatments and emergencies during the holiday season.

Blood and platelet donations often decline during the holidays. Regular donors are busy with holiday activities, and travel and severe winter weather may cause blood drive cancellations.

Donors are urged to give now to ensure the availability of blood this winter. In thanks for helping meet the urgent need around the holidays, all those who donate blood now through Dec. 19, 2018, will receive a $5 Amazon.com Gift Card via email. (Restrictions apply).

More information and details are available at RedCrossBlood.org/Together.

Make an appointment to donate blood by downloading the free American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org or calling 1-800-733-2767.

The superintendent said this had been a great partnership thus far as the lawnmower had been utilized to cut the football field this season. He added that it is more cost effective than other alternatives.

With Christmas holidays coming up next month, the superintendent told board members he would be getting with them on a date for the December board meeting.

Following adjournment of the board meeting, several of the board members attended an advisory council meeting for the career tech programs at the Elba Career Academy at the high school.

grounds, but most importantly, for the people of Coffee County."

Rugg said he could not thank the people and employees of Coffee County enough. He said he never could have done what he did without his crew, and everyone involved with the county.

"I have a great crew," Rugg said. "It is one of the best maintenance departments in the state...there is no doubt in my mind."

He said he is 47 now and has spent over half of his life working for Coffee County.

"I will miss it and miss all of you," he said. "I've had so much support, and I thank you all."

Commissioners and Sheriff Dave Sutton each also extended thanks and best wishes to Rugg as he prepares for retirement, but all agreed they hated to see him go.

County administrator Rod Morgan had one item to bring to commissioners for a vote during Monday's meeting.

He said the county's policy on health insurance had always allowed retirees to keep health insurance as long as they paid the full premium. Due to the high cost of that, he said there had never been any interest in it and no retiree had taken advantage of it.

Upon Morgan's recommendation, commissioners voted to approve a resolution to change the policy to no longer allow retirees to keep their insurance.

The county engineer asked commissioners to approve a resolution to initiate federal aid resurfacing projects on County Road 114 from Wayne Farms to County Road 138; County Road 307 from County Road 306 to the Pike County Line; and County Road 315 from Hwy. 87 N to County Road 305. Lentz said this was to begin preliminary paperwork only for the resurfacing projects.

This resolution was passed with no opposition.

Lentz also asked commissioners to approve order six new dump trucks off the state approved list, and to place six trucks in current use in the JM Wood Auction in June of 2019. He said the county has been able to minimize operating costs for dump trucks by using this ongoing rotation process.

Also, Lentz said the six dump trucks being placed in the auction were purchased in March 2018 for $142,000, and JM Wood had provided a guarantee of $144,000 for each truck at auction.

This motion was approved with no opposition.

One final request from the county engineer had commissioners voting to approve him sending out bids for corrugated metal pipe on an as needed basis. He said the hope in this would be to get a better price on the metal.

The sheriff asked citizens to be vigilant of everything they do during the holiday season, which is now here.

Commissioners voted to enter into an executive session prior to concluding Monday's meeting to discuss preliminary negotiations regarding a trade or commerce issue in which the county is in competition for with others. This was certified as an appropriate reason for an executive session, and it was announced the meeting would be adjourned at the end of the executive session with no action being taken.

The next Coffee County Commission meeting will be Monday, Dec. 10, at 9 a.m., in the community room of the county complex in New Brockton.

Girl Scouts of Southern Alabama seeking volunteers to help program

Girl Scouts of Southern Alabama (GSSA) is now seeking volunteers to help build the go-getters, innovators, risk-takers, and leaders of tomorrow. Girl Scouts is a one-of-a-kind, proven leadership development program that pairs girls with strong, caring female role models and mentors who prepare them to take the lead from age five to 18 and into adulthood. "To create more female leaders, we need to start young and make sure today's girls are acquiring the courage, confidence, character, and other skills they need to take the reins of leadership in the 21st century," said Karlyn Edmonds, Chief Executive Officer of GSSA. "We cannot do this without the community stepping up to help us build the next generation of female leadership." At Girl Scouts there is volunteer opportunities for everyone, from troop roles to role models. Whether you can give a day, a few weeks, or the whole year, it all starts with the volunteers. "As a volunteer, you'll have the opportunity to see girls take the lead in a range of activities—from kayaking, archery, and camping, to coding, robotics, and financial literacy," said GSSA volunteer Sue Williams. "The impact, memories, and excitement you'll gain from becoming a volunteer is unimaginable." Adult volunteers are vital for the survival of continuing the best leadership experience for girls in the world. For more information on how to volunteer or become a Girl Scout, visit girlscoutssa.org or call 800-239-6636.

Good to Give Thanks

"It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto thy name, O Most High: To shew forth thy loving kindness in the morning, and thy faithfulness every night." Psalm 92: 1-2. The starting line of the Psalm says, "It is a good thing to give thanks to the Lord." The second verse reinforces that with: "... in the morning, and ... night," i.e. at all times.

Offering thanks is a good habit to form towards men and God.

"The owner of a large department store offered a prize of $5,000 to the one giving the best answer to the question, 'How can my business be most speedily and surely improved?'"

Many students of economics submitted different lengthy answers. Roy McCardell received a check for $5,000 for simply writing on a postcard, "Tell your clerks to say 'Thank You!'"

But too often we don't say it to our mothers, much less to God!

A family went out to eat one Sunday. Little Margie bowed her head awaiting "grace." But her father began to eat. She whispered, "Mom, Daddy is eating and we haven't prayed." "Shhh," the mother replied, "People don't say prayers in a place like this." Margie asked, "Why? Doesn't God go to cafeterias?"

Being thankful and giving thanks is the right thing to do. If a friend does something for you, recognize the kindness and express thanks.

Everyday the good Lord blesses us with multiplied gifts. Acknowledge these gifts and thank Him.

For the gift of life, health, forgiveness in Christ, provisions, family, friends, work, nature, and countless things in each person's life, one should give thanks.

Thank the Lord with words, with devotion, and with deeds which reflect a thankful spirit.

Let us not miss the blessings of giving God thanks. It is a good thing!

A: One lesson is fundamental to people of faith: God knows us individually, He calls us by name, and every moment of our lives we are known to Him.

Thought to Remember
Father, today I pray for those yet to believe.

ADPH recommends flu shots for those 6 months of age and older

The Alabama Department of Public Health (ADPH) encourages annual influenza vaccination of all persons 6 months of age and older as the best way to prevent influenza and its potentially serious complications.

Among its many benefits are reducing the risk of flu illness, doctors' visits, hospitalization and even death.

For the upcoming 2018-2019 influenza season, there is updated flu vaccine and many vaccine options, including nasal spray vaccine. Flu circulates year round and peak activity usually occurs between December and February, but could start earlier or extend later.

In the 2017-2018 flu season, there was widespread activity for three months, which was longer than usual. As of October 27, 2018, a total of 185 pediatric deaths for the 2017-2018 season have been reported to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention with approximately 80 percent of these deaths occurring in children who did not receive a flu shot for the season.

Precautions are as follows:

- Try to avoid close contact with sick people.
- While sick, limit contact with others as much as possible to keep from infecting them.
- If you are sick with flu-like illness, stay home for at least 24 hours after fever is gone except to get medical care or for other necessities. (Fever should be gone for 24 hours without the use of a fever-reducing medicine.)

- Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. After using a tissue, throw it in the trash and wash your hands.
- Wash your hands often <<https://www.cdc.gov/handwashing/>> with soap and water. If soap and water are not available, use an alcohol-based hand rub.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth. Germs spread this way.
- Clean and disinfect surfaces and objects that may be contaminated with germs like flu.

Contact your private physician or your local county health department for a flu clinic schedule. For more information, visit <http://www.alabamapublichealth.gov/immunization/flu-and-pneu-vaccines.html>, or contact the ADPH Immunization Division at (334) 206-5023 or toll free at 800-469-4599. Flu shots may also be available at pharmacies.

Alabama Extension now offers Farming Basics course online

More people than ever are interested in giving farming a try.

In the past, people turned to farming family members for help. Today, most people are generations removed from farming.

To help budding farmers get started, Alabama Extension now offers a free online course, Farming Basics.

Launched Sept. 10, the course addresses critical topics in agriculture.

Alabama Extension director Gary Lemme calls the course a groundbreaking digital effort.

"Anyone who is considering farming but has little to no experience will reap rewards by completing the course," says Lemme. He adds that Farming Basics is a valuable tool for experienced farm owners as well.

"Established producers can use the course as a refresher in best practices," says Lemme. "Additionally, they can use it to train new employees."

Jewell and Russell Bean of S & B Farm in Barbour County agree the course is exactly what beginning farmers need.

"Farming Basics is filled with good information," Russell Bean says. "We recommend it as a resource not only for beginning farmers but seasoned producers as well."

Farming Basics' five chapters feature video presentations and additional resources which enhance the course's content depth. A short quiz at the end of each chapter offers participants the opportunity to review and reinforce content concepts. The course takes about two hours to complete. Upon completion, participants receive a certificate.

Dr. Ayanava Majumdar, Farming Basics project leader, says more than 200 people have already pre-registered for the course.

"Farming is challenging for experienced farmers, and it can be overwhelming to people new to it," says Majumdar. "Our goal with Farming Basics is to help new producers develop knowledge and critical skills, enabling them to reduce mistakes and achieve profitability more rapidly."

The course covers farm management and marketing, pesticide safety, food safety, basic crop production and pest management. Find the course at <https://aces.catalog.auburn.edu/>.

Farming Basics follows the proven model of Beef Basics, Alabama Extension's first online agriculture course.

Lemme says these courses serve as the foundation of the organization's growing commitment to online learning.

"Because of programs like this, we are becoming a nationally recognized leader in digital learning."

This course is part of Alabama Extension's overarching Beginning Farmer program, a collaborative effort of a wide range of institutions, producer organizations and nonprofit agencies. The Alabama Beginning Farmer Program is funded by a grant from the USDA Beginning Farmers and Ranchers Development Program.

Currently, the Beginning Farmer program provides intense on-farm guidance to more than 60 beginning farmers, including military veterans, women and socially disabled individuals. The advisory service has an 85 percent adoption rate and has increased yields by improving crop quality and reducing insecticide use with pest prevention.

Alabama Extension operates as the primary outreach organization for the land-grant functions of Alabama A&M and Auburn Universities.

Views From The Pressbox

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

The Christmas tree and decorations went up over the weekend at the Mularz house and our grandson Lawson helped put the balls on the tree and even helped unpack some of the decorations from the closets. He was a little disappointed that by the end of the day there were still no presents under the tree, but I am sure his Nanny will solve that problem very soon!

For what it is worth....

 The Elba Lady Tigers got a head start on the basketball season last week at a tourney in Straughn and won two games before falling in the finals. The Lady Tigers claimed an impressive opening round win over Luverne and then upset Straughn to reach the finals, but found out it's hard to defeat a good team with three starters on the bench due to fouls and lost in the closing seconds to Brantley, in the finals. Coach Hammonds said after the tournament that once his team's shots start falling it will be a force to reckon with during the regular season, and while that is true, the Lady Tigers must also improve from the foul line as they hit only 29 of 71 shots from the line. The style of play Elba runs gets it to the line, but when you miss 42 free throws in three games, it makes little difference. The loss in the finals was disappointing, but the two wins were over good teams and may just spark the Lady Tigers to a solid season.

 The third round of the state football playoffs is in the books and as always there were a number of surprises. In 7A, Central had to rally in the closing seconds to get by Robert E. Lee 34-27 and Thompson knocked off Hoover 31-28, while in 6A Spanish Fort was upset by Wetumpka 21-17, in 5A unbeaten Etowah lost to Central Clay 35-13, in 4A Andalusia won its rematch against Hillcrest 28-21, in 3A Flomaton surprised Pike County 12-10, in 2A Luverne hammered Leroy 26-7, and in 1A Maplesville knocked off defending 2A state champ Lanett 29-6.

 In what should no longer be called the 'Iron Bowl,' Alabama broke loose in the third quarter and never looked back to clobber Auburn 52-21. The Crimson Tide got off to a slow start in the game and got fooled by a couple of Gus's trick plays, but once Tua got on track there was little anyone in white could do as the Tide rolled. A few of my own tidbits from the game were that (1) If Stidham goes pro maybe he can play for the new team from Birmingham in the Vince McMahon League, (2) Gus proved for once and for all that he is over his head as an SEC head coach and whoever signed the contract to pay him $49 million should be fired, (3) Tua has no conscience and fears no throw, and (4) the scary thing about Alabama is that it should be even better next season.

 Ye Ole Polish Prognosticator dropped by over the weekend and was still a little tired after staying up late to watch Texas A & M's seven-overtime win over LSU. The local guesspert hit only 5 of 13 playoff picks last week to move his season totals to 319-83, but declared he will keep picking until they hand out the blue maps and left this week's fearless forecast. Here goes....Wetumpka 24 Saraland 17, Pinson Valley 35 Clay-Chalkville 28, Vigor 28 Greenville 6, Mortimer Jordan 17 Central Clay 14, UMS-Wright 24 Andalusia 10, Oneonta 21 Hokes Bluff 20, Providence Christian 21 Flomaton 14, Randolph County 14 Piedmont 12, Luverne 29 Highland Home 27, Fyffe 35 Aliceville 21, Maplesville 28 Linden 14, Mars Hill 20 Pickens County 13.

At Straughn tournament

Lady Tigers claim two early-season wins

The Elba Lady Tigers tipped off the basketball season last week at the Straughn Thanksgiving Tournament and claimed wins over Luverne 49-38 and Straughn 45-44 before falling to Brantley 55-53 in the finals to bring home runner-up honors in the seven-team event.

"It was a good start to the season," stated Elba coach Shaun Hammonds. "I hate we didn't bring home the championship trophy, but we had two good wins and it should fire the girls up for the regular season. We didn't shoot the ball real well from the floor or the free throw line, but we hustled on both ends of the court and let everyone know we are going to play hard and be aggressive. We got hurt with fouls in the final game and had three starters foul out. So, that is another area we will need to work on, because we need our best on the floor and not on the bench. I think the girls now understand what we are going to do and as we practice and gain experience we should improve and develop into a pretty good ball club."

Following are highlights of all three tournament games:

Elba 49 Luverne 38

The Lady Tigers pulled ahead early and pulled away late to claim a 49-38 win over Luverne, in the opening game of the tournament.

Nina Williams sparked an early uprising that helped the Lady Tigers grab a 12-8 first quarter lead, while Breanna Sanders drained a 3-pointer and A'Maysia Whitfield added four points in the second stanza as Elba carried a 25-22 lead in at the half.

Freeda Hooks scored half the Lady Tigers points in the third quarter as Elba stretched its lead to 37-33, and the Lady Tigers took command in the fourth quarter and outscored Luverne 12-5 to pull away and post the 49-38 win.

Sandra Lindsey, A'Maysia Whitfield and Freeda Hooks all scored 9 points to lead Elba, which hit only 11 of 25 shots from the free-throw line, while Johnson scored 12 points to lead Luverne.

Elba (49): N. Williams 7, Gray 1, Lindsey 9, Whitfield 9, M. Williams 5, Hooks 9, Sanders 3, Baker 4.

Luverne (38): Williams 7, Thomas 5, Means 2, Burnette 2, Johnson 12.

Elba 45 Straughn 44

The Lady Tigers staged a furious second half rally to surprise Straughn 45-44, in second round action.

Straughn slipped ahead 13-12 in the opening stanza, and despite 10 first half points from Elba's A'Maysia Whitfield, the Lady Tigers went in at the half trailing 26-22. Sandra Lindsey poured in six points in the third quarter to spark an Elba rally that enabled the Lady Tigers to pull even at 32-32, and despite hitting only 1 of 9 attempts from the free throw line in the fourth quarter, pulled ahead midway through the stanza and held on for the exciting 45-44 win.

A'Maysia Whitfield scored 16 points to lead Elba, while Sandra Lindsey, and Jaylyn Baker added 7 points apiece. Kelley scored 19 points to lead Straughn.

Elba (45): J. Gray 2, M. Gray 1, Lindsey 7, Whitfield 16, M. Williams 3, Hooks 5, Sanders 4, Baker 7.

Sr. (44): K. Kelley 12, Hall 1, Wilson 3, Hicks 8, Kelley 19.

Brantley 55 Elba 53

The Lady Tigers watched a 5-point fourth quarter lead evaporate after losing three starters to fouls in a disappointing 55-53 loss to Brantley, in the tournament finals.

The two area rivals swapped baskets in the opening stanza and were tied at 10-10 after eight minutes of action. However, Brantley's Gabby Perkins poured in 11 points in the second quarter to put the Lady Bulldogs on top at the half 27-24. Elba's A'Maysia Whitfield and Freeda Hooks sparked a Lady Tigers rally that put Elba back on top 41-36 heading into the final stanza, and the Lady Tigers remained on top until the closing minute as Brantley scored late to claim the win, and the tourney title, with the 55-53 victory.

A'Maysia Whitfield scored 13 points to lead Elba, while Sandra Lindsey added 9 and Nina Williams scored 8. Gabby Perkins scored 22 points and Olivia Jones added 17 to lead Brantley.

Coffee County Farm City committee hands out annual awards at banquet

The Coffee County Farm City Committee handed out several awards Thursday evening, Nov. 15, during the annual Farm-City Banquet.

Earlier in the month, a handful of the award winners attended a press conference to discuss the awards while other award winners simply presented a bio statement for media. The Farm City awards are designed to honor the "best" in farm and industry in the county.

Nine awards were presented this year, including: Beef Award, Conservation Award, Poultry Award, Row Crop Award, Forestry Award, Young Farmer Award, Industry Award, Business of Year Award, and Farm of Distinction.

Receiving awards, but not in attendance for press conference, were:

• Outstanding Conservation – Reynolds Farm

Reynolds Farm is owned and operated by Wesley Reynolds and his father, Johnny Reynolds. They have a diverse agricultural operation consisting of 550 acres of cotton, 100 acres of peanuts, 150 acres of hay, and 200 acres of pastureland, which holds 170 heads of brood cows. They also run 140 head of stocker calves each year.

They plant cover crops each year to control erosion, increase organic matter, and provide winter grazing for livestock. Cotton and peanuts are strip till planted into these cover crops with minimum soil disturbance. The pastureland has been extensively cross fence to implement rotational grazing with each paddock having fresh water available. All streams also have been fenced out to protect water quality.

• Forestry Award – Mark Vaughan

Mark Vaughan is the owner of Whitewater Preserve, a registered game preserve located in northern Coffee County. The property is 424 acres. It consists of 120 acres of 11-year-old loblolly pine plantation, 70 acres of 8-year-old longleaf pine plantation, and remaining acreage of mixed hardwoods. Also on the property is a recreational fish pond. Pine plantations on the property are managed for timber production, and the property is managed for wildlife through the use of prescribed fire and wildlife plantings. A grove of fruit trees has been planted and a stand of cherrybark and white oaks for hard mast production. Mark, and wife Candace, have managed the property for 22 years. It is a part of the America Tree Farm System.

• Industry Award – Ben E. Keith Foods

For more than a century, Ben E. Keith Foods has been a leader in fine food and premium beverage distribution, with a goal to provide excellent customer service to all of their partners. Established in Fort Worth, Texas in 1906, Ben E. Keith Foods is the nation's eighth largest broad line foodservice distributor and operates today with eight divisions shipping to fourteen states throughout the country. In Oct. 2016, Ben E. Keith Foods acquired Kelley Foods of Alabama expanding the food division footprint to a total of 14 states. The acquisition included all assets of Kelley Foods including the Elba, Ala. distribution center and manufacturing division, which produces quality sausages and hams, as well as other custom products under the Kelley Foods name. The distribution division has been named Ben E. Keith Foods – Southeast Division, while manufacturing operations remain Kelley Foods, a division of Ben E. Keith Foods.

• Business of the Year – Sessions Peanut Company

Sessions has been in business for over 101 years. Sessions Peanut 2018 Farm of Distinction – 4W Farms (Daron, Matt and Wayne Warren)... Wayne, Daron and Matt Warren are second and third generation farmers in Coffee County. Wayne's father, Luke Warren, took over the farm in 1927 when he was 14-years-old after his father died. Wayne later joined the farming efforts with his dad. When Wayne's sons, Daron and Matt, came along it was only natural for them to continue the family legacy. This farm is now known as 4W Farms. The farm consists of beef cattle, hay and timber. The home place consists of 250 acres of pasture and timber with an additional 200 acres of leased land for pasture and hay production. Along with farming, Daron and Matt also are employed with Pilgrims of Enterprise. When asked about being chosen as the 2018 Farm of Distinction for Coffee County, Daron said, "It is very special to be recognized." He said the family's hard work and dedication in working with hay and cows is what got them where they are today. Daron and Wayne are pictured above with Cindy Kinney (right), the 2018 Farm-City committee chairman.

Company is a family business that supports its community in a multitude of ways. In addition to the direct economic impact this business provides in sales and jobs, it also serves the community indirectly through participation in local events and service.

Congrats to all the Coffee County Farm City Award winners!

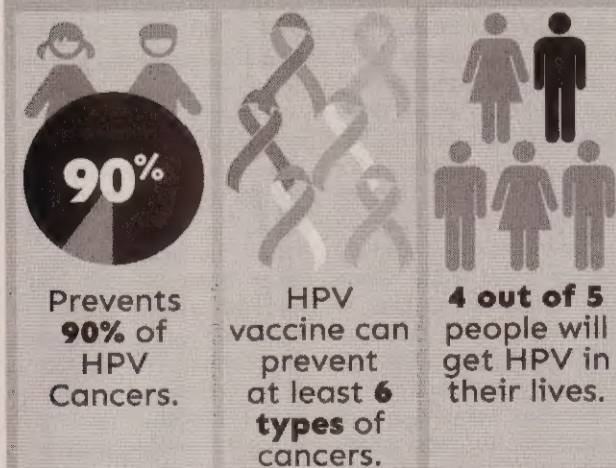

2018 Outstanding Young Farmer – Ginger Gaines... Ginger is the daughter of Hank and Dianne Gaines of the Goodman Community. She works as the cattle manager for Grace Hill Farm, where her family raises Angus/Simmental cattle. Ginger said she is blessed to be able to work alongside her family, and she has found the Coffee County community to be welcoming, kind, generous and helpful. "God has been more than gracious to me," she said. "It is very humbling and an honor to be chosen for this award. Ginger is pictured above with Cindy Kinney (right), the 2018 Farm-City committee chairman.

2018 Poultry Award – Larry Reeves... Larry Reeves is a lifetime resident of Coffee County, living in the Basin Community, with his wife, Cindy, and daughter, Amanda. Together, they operate a poultry farm. He built his first 36' x 300' poultry houses in 1981 and grew for ConAgra. In Feb. 2017, he built four 66' x 600' houses for Pilgrims Pride. When asked about winning this year's poultry award, Larry said, "It is an honor to represent Coffee County and to be chosen for this award." Larry and Cindy Reeves are pictured above with Cindy Kinney (right), the 2018 Farm-City committee chairman.

2018 Row Crop Award – Joey Powell (Powell Farms)... Powell Farms is a third generation farm located in the Mt. Pleasant Community. Joey's grandfather purchased the farm in 1943 after his farm in Dale County was purchased by what is now known as Fort Rucker. Joey grew his first crop in 1983 on a total of 100 acres. Over the last 35 years, Powell Farms has grown into a diversified farm of more than 1,700 acres. Today, Powell Farms will harvest more than 1,300 acres of row crops including 750 acres of cotton and 575 acres of peanuts. In receiving the award, Joey said, "It is an honor to be recognized by our peers." He and his wife, Lisa, are pictured above with Cindy Kinney (right), the 2018 Farm-City committee chairman.

Elba ready to ‘Kickoff Christmas’ with events Saturday and Monday

Christmas kicks off in Elba this weekend when the First Annual Cruisin’ Christmas Car Show and Christmas Crafts Bazaar highlight events planned around the square on Saturday, Dec. 1st.

The Car Show will begin at 12 noon and continue until 4 p.m. on the downtown square in Elba while the Crafts Bazaar will be held inside the Just Folk Coffeehouse building. The crafts bazaar will be from 12 noon until 5 p.m.

From 1-3 p.m. Saturday afternoon, Elba Clipper editor Linda Hodge will be set up on the old Clements lot on the square to take “Christmas in Elba” photos for any and all interested. A $5 fee gets a 5x7 photo (additional prints available for $3 each). These photos will be made at the official Elba Christmas tree, which will be lit for the season Saturday evening during a special ceremony.

The SEC Championship Game will be available for viewing for football fanatics at the Elba Theatre. The game is set to begin at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Beginning at 5 p.m. Saturday evening, Christmas caroling will begin as the city prepares for the official lighting of the Christmas tree, which will take place at approximately 5:30 p.m. There will be sing-along carols and special performances.

This all leads to Elba Christmas Parade, which will be Monday, Dec. 3, at 6 p.m. in Elba and is hosted by the Elba Chamber of Commerce.

“Christmas Movies” is this year’s theme. The parade will take place in downtown Elba, beginning and ending on Dixon Street by the old high school football stadium. Families and friends will line the streets as over 100 parade entries march down to the courthouse square.

Entries for this year’s parade are now being accepted. Businesses, floats, antique cars, beauty queens and more are welcome to join the award-winning Elba High School Marching Tiger Band, EHS Dance Line and Cheerleaders, the local police and fire department, the Coffee County Sheriff, elected officials, and others.

The deadline to enter the parade is Friday, Nov. 30th. There is no fee to participate.

There will be live performances on Court Street in front of the public viewing stands and the parade stage. The Elba Christmas Parade has entertained thousands of children and adults year after year as it winds its way by the historic Coffee County Courthouse. The Christmas parade has become an annual holiday tradition that has continued to be a favorite event for generations. With “Christmas Movies” themed entries, including brightly lighted and colorfully decorated floats vying for first place this is an event not to be missed.

For more information regarding the Elba Christmas Parade, contact the Elba Chamber of Commerce by phone at (334) 897-3125 or by email at elbachamber@troycable.net.

Before and after these special holiday events, citizens are encouraged to ‘shop and dine’ in Elba at the many numerous businesses, and help kick off the holiday season in fashion for the city.

issue. This money can be used for certain municipal projects, but is not part of the general fund. The city has already used $23,728 of this fund to purchase a Street Department truck.

Two new police cars have been ordered and one is already paid for from city funds.

Regular income shows that sales taxes for the month of October are up about a thousand dollars from the same period last year. Garbage fees are also up slightly. Building permits are not a major source of income for Elba, but are up slightly compared to last year.

Murdock said city residents should be prepared for an increase in sewer fees later this year. The amount and timing will be based on state and federal officials and will be factored on the cost of repaying the massive multi-million dollar 40-year sewer rehab loan.

Council members were informed of several upcoming events. James Baldwin would be feted with a retirement party on Wednesday of this week, the Elba Christmas Parade is December 3rd, the City Christmas party will be held on December 5th, a council workshop is set for this Thursday [Nov. 29th] at 6 p.m. Also, as is tradition, the two (2) required monthly council meetings in December will be held on Monday, December 10th – one immediately following the other.

Jug fishing producing plenty of Alabama River catfish

By DAVID RAINER
Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources

The ripples emanating from the sides of the 2-foot-long piece of pool noodle was just what Joe Dunn hoped to see.

It meant there was something attached to the line that dropped some 15 feet into the murky waters of the Alabama River near Camden.

During the dog days of summer, this fishing tactic is what Dunn prefers because the heat makes it unbearable to crappie fish in hopes of catching seven or eight keepers. The same goes for bass fishing.

So, Dunn turns to the plentiful catfish that inhabit Alabama’s many rivers, and lets the jugs, or noodles in this case, do the fishing while he enjoys a restful night of sleep. If he’s ambitious, he’ll run the 20 or so jugs during the night. If not, he’ll head out at dawn to find out what’s been biting.

Catching bait might be the only real work involved in “jug” fishing.

“The predominant bait on Millers Ferry is going to be shad that you catch with your cast net,” Dunn said. “But skipjacks (members of the herring family) are another excellent bait. It’s a little harder, sometimes, to catch skipjacks. Most people use Sabiki rigs and go behind the power house to catch the skipjacks. But sometimes there’s another way to catch them. If you’re on the river, sometimes you will see skipjacks chasing little river minnows or small shad. You ease over into that area, and when they come up to feed, you throw your cast net and load it up with skipjacks. We did that just the other day with the cast net.

“The key is good, fresh bait.”

Dunn said if you’re planning to do a little tightlining for catfish before you head back to camp to get out of the heat, the skipjacks will stay alive for a little while in the livewell. If you see a couple floating in the livewell, it’s best to get them all out, put them in a plastic bag and get them on ice before they degrade.

Dunn says the best way to deal with leftover skipjacks is to freeze them as soon as possible.

“Freezing skipjacks in water doesn’t work well,” he said. “When you thaw them out, they’re all mushy and just don’t work well. I found out if you put them on a cookie sheet and freeze them individually before putting them in freezer bags, they work a lot better. That’s a big plus.”

When Dunn is targeting flathead catfish, he tries to catch small bream to bait the jugs. Flathead, also known as yellow cats, prefer the bait to be live and swimming.

“Most of the time, flatheads are going to hit something live, whether it’s a 3-inch bream (taken by hook and line) or a skipjack you’ve just caught in the cast net,” he said. “If you have a good live skipjack, you just hook him in the middle of the back so he can swim and stay alive.”

“If you’re looking for a mess of small fish for a fish fry, just use those small shad and thread them on the hook. If you’re keying on bigger fish, you’re better off with a live bait, even your bigger blue cats like live bait.”

Most people tend to shun keeping a larger blue cat because the flesh is not as suitable for consumption as any size flathead. However, Dunn said large blue cats can be delicious if they’re prepared correctly.

“The key is learning how to clean them to where they taste good,” he said. “It’s best to bleed them. I cut the tail off and throw them in the splash well. When I clean them, I get all the red meat off, and then I soak the meat in an ice-water slush. You soak it and get all the blood out, changing the water when needed to get that meat snowball white.

“Then you fry it, and it’s good. I’ve had people tell me it was the best blue cat they’ve ever eaten.”

Now Dunn is not saying he can make big blue cats taste like a flathead, which doesn’t seem to lose any appeal to the palate the larger the fish gets.

“I fried some flathead for my brother, Bubba, and he kept asking me, ‘What did you do to this fish? What did you do to this fish?’” Dunn said. “I didn’t do anything to it. It was just the fish. The flathead is just the primo catfish catch out of the river.”

Dunn said a couple of techniques seem to work when he’s specifically targeting flatheads. He focuses on the inside bends in the river and rock walls. At the start of the bend, most will have a small sandbar. He said the flathead like to hang out at the drop-off behind the sandbar.

“They’re sitting below that bar where the current is running over the top of them, waiting on that bait to come to them,” he said. “I also like to fish where a cut is coming into the main river where the depth goes from 12 to 14 feet down to 30. They like to hang underneath that drop-off. But big blue cats like those spots too.”

Even though Millers Ferry has a reputation as a fantastic crappie fishery, Dunn thinks catfish are overlooked at times.

Dunn said the hot weather pattern for catfish starts around the middle of June and usually runs through October, depending on when we get enough of a cold front to lower the water temperature.

“The hotter it gets, the more you stay in the main river channel,” he said. “I use the noodles because you use a lot longer lines, 15 to 20 feet, and it’s easier to wrap the lines around the noodles when I take them up.”

When he’s targeting the larger fish, Dunn uses a tarred nylon twine for the main lines with a 1½-ounce lead, swivel, monofilament leader and a 5/0 circle hook.

Dunn said the largest flathead catfish he’s hauled in at the Ferry weighed 65 pounds, and the largest blue cat he’s seen weighed 55 pounds.

For “fry ’em whole” small fish, he uses double-hook rigs with smaller hooks and smaller shad for bait.

Dunn takes a break from catfishing during the winter to head to the deer woods. The water gets high during the winter, but he’s back on the river fairly early in the new year.

“We usually start on February 17,” he said. “We’ve always started on that date because that’s my oldest son’s birthday. We would come up to the river and get our jugs ready. But that time of year, you go up in the shallow flats. The catfish will move into the shallow flats before anything else.”

In February, Dunn changes his “jugs” to 20-ounce drink bottles and 1½- to 2-foot lines with a ½-ounce to 1-ounce weight, swivel and foot of 20-pound-test monofilament leader tied to a 3/0 circle hook.

Alabama’s creel limit on catfish is determined by size. For catfish under 34 inches there is no limit. Anglers can keep one catfish 34 inches or longer in most areas of the state. Several river basins – Perdido, Conecuh, Blackwater, Yellow, Choctawhatchee, Chipola and Chattahoochee – are exempt from the size limit. Also, it is unlawful to transport live catfish 34 inches or longer beyond the boundaries of Alabama.
